FINANCE AND COMMERCE. WUNDT'S PHILOSOPHY OF DREAMS.

Wundt regards most dream representations as really representations, since they emanate from sensorial impressions, which, though weak, contirue during sleep. An inconvenient position during sleep causes the representation of poinful work, perilous ascent of a mountain, etc. A slight intercestal pain becomes the point of an enemy's dagger, or the bite of an enraged dog. Difficulty in respiration is fearful agony caused by nightmare, seeming to be a weight rolled upon the chest, or a horrible monster which threatens to stiffe the sleeper. An involuntary extension of the sleeper. The stock market this morning again relapsed into a normal distriction in the stock of a normal distriction in the distriction of the foot is a fall from the dizzy height of a tower. Flying is suggested by the rhythmic movements of respiration.

Further, "those subjective visual and auditory sensations which are represented in a waking state are luminous chaos of an ob-in the ears, and especially subjective retinal sensations, have an essential role," according to Wundt. "There are shown to us in numerable birds, butterflies, fish, multi-colored pears, flowers, etc. But if there be some cutaneous irritation-these visions are usually changed into caterpillars or beetles crawling over the skin caterpillars or beetles crawling over the skin of the sleeper. The sleeper sometimes dreams of his appearing on the street, or in society only half dressed; the innocent cause is found in some of the bedclothes having fallen off. An inconvenient position of the sleeper, a slight hindrance to respiration, or interference with the action of the heart, may be the cause of dreams where one and a dreams where ten something in starting on a journey. The movements of respiration may suggest to the alceper, as previously mentioned, flying, but this flight may be objective, and instead of himself flying, he sees an angel descending from the heavens, or a luminous chaos where high are resulting moving.

from the heavens, or a luminous chaos where birds are swiftly moving.

The representation of dreams having sen-sorial origin may have mingled with them those which arise solely from the reproduction of past memories. Parents or friends cut off in the flower of life, ordinarily appear in dreams, because of the profound impression which their death or burial has made, "hence the general opinion that the dead continue during the night their intercourse with the Plants of the "Trade" Paper. Some of the most profitable newspaper property in this country is found in the plants of the "trade" paper. A glance within a newspaper directory will convince any one of the completeness with which this field is covered. There is scarcely a trade or in-dustry or enterprise that has not its repre-sentative journal—either daily, weekly, fort-nightly or monthly. Some of these aim to nightly or monthly. Some of these aim to cover all the news points in the trade they represent, and give, besides general information on the subject, editorial and other comment relative to their particular trade. Others, through neglect, inability or laxiness, have let their advertisements grow up till they have choked out the news features. This is especially true of the older and richer ones.

The advertising space invariably increases at the expense of the news columns. The advertising rates are very high, as the price charged for subscriptions is but a nominal advertising rates are very high, as the price charged for subscriptions is but a nominal one. In fact, many of the magazines distribute a goodly part of their circulation gratuitously—and they can well afford to. The journals of the brewers, iron men, furniture manufacturers, and the railway papers are by far the richest of the hebdomadal newspapers in this city. Most of these were started since the great fire, and have waxed great upon the manufacturers whom they represent.—Chicago News "Rambler."

So Beautiful and So Sad. An artist, talking of places for summe study, remarked upon the great number of spots which are now said to be infected with malaria, and wondered if the introduction of so specious sounding a name had not something to do with it. It did not use to be so, be said. "The first time I ever saw the word was upon a picture by Hebert, in the Luxembourg, twenty years ago. It was a beautiful picture, full of a soft, dreamy sentiment, as I thought when I looked at it, but now I know that the name, which was simply malaria, meant that the mist on the water was poisonous and the dreamy women half-covered with their mantles and crouched in the boat, were too ill to smile and the youth standing up with a pole in his hand had not strength to push his boat, but let it float down on the sluggish stream.

I don't know how much of an allegory He bert mount his picture to be, but now, when we know that nearly every part of Italy is becoming affected with the poison and that almost nothing is being done about it, the picture recalls itself as very tragic as well as beautiful. It is like Italy itself, so beautiful and so sad,"-Philadelphia Times.

He Had an Eye to Business

One more anecdote of a funereal character "Can any of you tell me why Gottfried Muller is not at school!" said a teacher to her scholars a few weeks ago. Up went a little hand like a jumping jack. "Well?" was the interrogative response. "Please, ma'am," answered a little boy, with a rapidity that almost took away his breath, "his father's dead and uncle Pete's got the job." It is not perhaps necessary to say that the relative referred to was a rising young undertaker. That boy ought to be successful as a man. He has any eye to business.—Boston Budget INFLAMMATION, ULCERATION,
